Public March/Rally on Alcohol Law Reform

The Law Commission has completed its comprehensive review of New Zealand's liquor laws and tabled its final report to Government on 27 April. Close to 3000 submissions were received on the original issues paper, the largest number ever received on a social issue.

Their final report makes 153 evidence-based recommendations which will bring about a change in the way we manage alcohol in our society and the much called for change in our hazardous drinking culture.

We call on our political leaders to take this once in a life-time opportunity to prioritise the safety and well-being of our people, our families and communities and adopt these recommendations as a package.

The Manukau Alcohol Action Group invites concerned Kiwis to take part in this Public March/Rally and send a clear message to our politicians that it's time to take important steps towards alcohol law reform.
