New Zealand

Prof. Sally Casswell

Sally Casswell is Professor of Social and Health Research and the Director of the SHORE and Whariki Research Centre, School of Public Health at Massey University, New Zealand.

Her research interests are in social and public health policy, particularly in relation to alcohol and other drugs. She has carried out research on the development and implementation of public policy at the national and community level and in the evaluation of these initiatives. A focus for some years has been on commercial marketing of alcohol products. She is involved in international alcohol policy as a member of the WHO Expert Advisory Panel on Drug Dependence and Alcohol Problems and SHORE is a WHO Collaborating Centre. Professor Casswell also has an active involvement with the NGO sector including GAPA (Global Alcohol Policy Alliance) of which she is chair of the Scientific Advisory Board and APAPA (Asia Pacific Alcohol Policy Alliance). Professor Casswell is a Fellow of the Royal Society of New Zealand and an Officer of the Order of New Zealand.

Prof. Jennie Connor

Jennie Connor is Professor and Head of Department of Preventive and Social Medicine at the University of Otago in Dunedin. She is a public health physician and epidemiologist, involved in research about alcohol-related harm, injury prevention, and sexual health.

Jennie is a medical spokesperson for Alcohol Action New Zealand and strongly supports the adoption of evidence-based policy for the reduction of alcohol-related harm in New Zealand and elsewhere.
